EINPresswire.com/ -- Steve and Matt Bourie, the father-son team behind The Jackpot Gents, a YouTube channel dedicated to video poker enthusiasts, are taking their casino content to the next level with a country-western music video—a first for casino influencers!

Steve and Matt Bourie are The Jackpot Gents

The Bouries turned to AI technology to create a mash-up of casino wins and country vibes. The music video highlights some of their biggest victories in casinos, complete with flashing lights, triumphant dings, and Matt's "handpay dance," a celebratory jig he performs whenever they score a win of $1,200 or more.

"This music video is our way of sharing the excitement of video poker while having a little fun, said Steve Bourie. "Plus, with AI, we got to bring our cowboy dreams to life!"

"Honestly, the 'handpay dance' seems to interest viewers the most," added Matt. "It's a little goofy, but hey, so is gambling sometimes. And if you're not dancing after a jackpot, are you even winning?"

The Bouries' 55-second AI-powered country-western music video, which combines humor, high stakes, and a little two-step fun, is now live on The Jackpot Gents' YouTube channel at <https://youtube.com/shorts/tT0lWTVEHp8>

At the heart of the content on their YouTube channel,

<https://www.youtube.com/@TheJackpotGents>, is a simple message: video poker isn't just another mindless gambling activity. Unlike slot machines, where luck is the only factor, video poker involves genuine skill and strategy. The Bouries break down the complexities of the game in their videos, showing viewers that with the right knowledge, players can actually improve their odds.

"Video poker has higher payback percentages, which means your money lasts a lot longer," explained Steve. "That's why we stick to it and encourage others to give it a try."

Fans tune in daily to watch Steve and Matt's casino adventures as they tackle different video poker machines and strategies. Every video ends with a transparent look at their win/loss record, giving viewers an honest glimpse into how they're faring financially for the year.

"Some days we win, some days we lose," said Matt. "But what keeps us going is the thrill of the game and the connection we've built with our audience. They're rooting for us, and that's the best feeling in the world."

Steve and Matt Bourie encourage casino fans to subscribe to their The Jackpot Gents on YouTube and join them as they prove that video poker is king, jackpots are for dancing, and casino life is never dull!
