

26-Year-Old's Groundbreaking Organic SPF Formula Hits Global Success After Being Named The #1 Choice By Allure Magazine

The new organic UV protection formula has become one of the most globally demanded products on the market

LOS ANGELES, CA, USA, August 5, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- 26-year-old Ryan Zamo has hit global success with his revolutionary organic UV protection formula, after being named "The #1 Choice By Allure Magazine," one of the top beauty and fashion magazines around the world.

Melanoma is one of the most underestimated causes of death around the world. The deadly skin cancer is caused from multiple factors, though research has proven the leading cause of the cancer stems from the sun's harmful UV rays, and excess exposure to the skin.

Zamo's organic UV protection formula, called "Protect," has created a worldwide buzz surrounding the remarkable new product. The revolutionary formula combinations newly discovered exotic herbs and oils from around the world, providing unprecedented UV protection, and the ability to remove previous dark spots from the sun.

The 26-year-old was raised with a vast knowledge of organic plant uses, his mother being a longtime plant biologist and horticulturist that specialized in exotic plant life, and his father being a native from Budapest, Hungary. The young entrepreneur said, "My dad would always share the amazing ways they would use herbs and oils to heal skin and hair problems when he was growing up, and my mom, who unfortunately passed away suddenly in April, had such a deep knowledge for the uses of exotic plant life."

Ryan Zamo, now the CEO of his own organic cosmetics company, Z Skin Cosmetics, has turned his parents' knowledge into a goldmine. With an increased awareness of both UV protection and the harmful chemicals being used in products, Zamo's organic formula "protected" has brought instant global success for the 26-year-old. The new product is just a testament to the increasing demand for chemical free, effective, organic products.
