Sollberger’s company provides turnkey project engineering solutions, integrity and compliance for upstream, midstream and downstream natural gas and liquids transport. “Following integrity and compliance best practices extends asset life, improves insurance premiums, mitigates downtime and avoids violations,” Sollberger explains. “It doesn’t have to be your nightmare. Identifying a trusted integrity and compliance partner allows for peace of mind and avoids regulatory compliance issues that hinder business operations and asset transactions.”

Sollberger’s data analysis provides a in-depth review of the components, commodities, typical circumstances, and economic impacts of DOT pipeline and facility accidents. Trends are established and annual report comparisons are highlighted for risk ranking components. Accident costs are compared with Operator annual reporting to forecast potential financial exposure on a per mile basis. “I greatly appreciate those costly lessons I can learn from others,” Sollberger says. “That is essentially what this data provides My desire is that this historical analysis will provide integrity, operating, and maintenance ideas for operators and engineers to investigate within their assets.
