Summary:

A new market study, titled “COVID-19 Impact on Online Higher Education Market Upcoming Trends, Growth Drivers and Challenges” has been featured on WiseGuyReports.

Overview:-

COVID-19, the disease it causes, surfaced in late 2019, and now had become a full-blown crisis worldwide. Over fifty key countries had declared a national emergency to combat coronavirus. With cases spreading, and the epicentre of the outbreak shifting to Europe, North America, India and Latin America, life in these regions has been upended the way it had been in Asia earlier in the developing crisis. As the coronavirus pandemic has worsened, the entertainment industry has been upended along with most every other facet of life. As experts work toward a better understanding, the world shudders in fear of the unknown, a worry that has rocked global financial markets, leading to daily volatility in the U.S. stock markets.

Higher education or post-secondary education is the final stage of formal learning after the successful completion of K-12 education. Students attain higher education by attending full-time degree courses in various institutions including universities, colleges, academies, technology institutes, vocational schools, trade schools, and other institutions offering professional certifications.

Certain non-degree courses are also witnessing hikes in enrollments due to the increasing interests of working professionals to pursue further education. Increasing demand for employability skills including like teamwork, critical thinking, analytical reasoning, ethical judgment, problem-solving, language skills, information literacy, and others has resulted in an overall increase in the volume and variety of course offerings in the higher education market over the last few years. With the rapid adoption of education technology, increasing focus on experiential or collaboration-based learning has led to many business schools and colleges offering courses, certifications, diplomas in innovative disciplines.
