About Acquisition International Leading Advisor Awards

Since 2014, every year Acquisition International looks to highlight some of the most renowned and innovative professionals from around the world. Recipients are determined through an internal process of research, analysis, shortlisting, and selection using publicly available sources such as local and national press, industry journals, client recommendations, press releases, and other published works to source potential candidates based entirely on merit, each of which is then carefully scrutinized to narrow down a shortlist, followed by a final selected list.

Leading Advisor Awards does not gather votes from either the firms, the individuals in question or other third parties: rather, we select our award recipients based on achievements, endeavours and efforts made over the previous 12 months.
