LONDON, GREATER LONDON, UK, May 11, 2021 /EINPresswire.com/ --

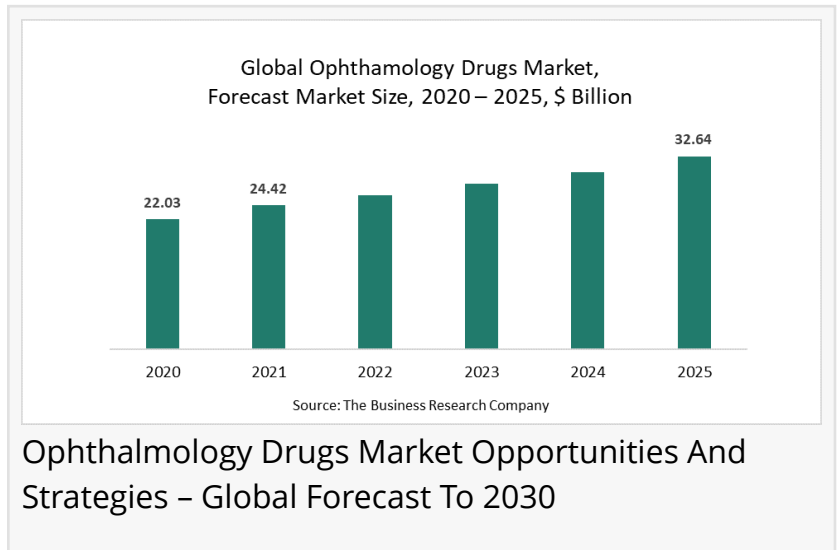

Ophthalmology drugs market research shows that development of new mode of delivery systems is an important trend in the market. Dry eye drug manufacturing companies are attempting to develop dry eye care products in various delivery systems to ensure improved patient compliance and usage along with profitability for the companies. Hence the introduction of new mode of delivery systems such as eye sprays for immediate comfort and improved patient compliance. Eye spray improves eyelids humidification, which serves as a substitute for people avoiding eye drops. For instance, Candorvision unveiled the CALMO Eye Spray, the first free eye preservative spray to be sold in Canada. CALMO Eye Spray repairs and stabilizes the tear film's lipid layer with its German liposome technology, and thus effectively solves one of the root causes of dry eye syndrome.
