Fatpos Global has released a report titled "Global Commercial Drone Market- Analysis of Market Size, Share and Trends for 2016-19 and Forecasts to 2030" which is estimated to exceed USD 41.25 billion by 2030. According to a study by Fatpos Global, the market is anticipated to render a CAGR of 22.27% between 2020 and 2030. The global drones market is estimated to grow on the back of the following reasons. The increasing demand for security, aerial services, growing use of digital technology, and demand from various sectors of society backs up the growth of the Commercial Drone Market. Moreover, Drones help in reducing the labor and time involved in the traditional method of collecting accurate information. They eliminate most of the human error involved in the process. Hence, all these factors are projected to aid the growth of the Drones market.

"The introduction of drones in construction sites inspection means amplification of worksite safety by eliminating a number of dangers and safety hazards. Using drones to transport goods aerially allows companies to reach difficult locations and keep track of everything that enters and leaves the job site. It is economical, efficient and keeps the site secure. As drones are typically small with high maneuverability rates, they are increasingly being used as an alternative to conventional vehicles. Even better, drones don't have to abide by traffic laws that allow them to deliver within a fraction of the time, using half of the resources..", said a lead analyst at Fatpos Global.

Drone is an aircraft that does not have a pilot but is controlled by someone on the ground, used especially for surveillance or for dropping bombs. They are also called unmanned aerial vehicle which provides a 24-hour “eye in the sky”. They increase safety, save time and resources, fast-track surveying and deliver accurate measurements. They are often used in manned aircraft risky missions. The autonomy of a ground operator or board computer is provided via remote control. They are an important component of modern warfare. Some equipment can carry missiles and reach the target with great precision. In monitoring and rescue operations, drones are also used. Smaller aircraft were used to gather information about the hostile locations before a mission. These devices are suitable for supplying food and water in areas affected by natural disasters, including floods and earthquakes.
