Global Liquid Packaging to surpass USD 537.45 billion by 2030 from USD 346.26 billion in 2020 at a CAGR of 4.49 % in the coming years, i.e., 2021-30

PHILADELPHIA, UNITED STATES ,
February 16, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/
-- Fatpos Global has released a report titled "Global Liquid Packaging Market - Analysis of Market Size, Share & Trends for 2019 - 2020 and Forecasts to 2030" which is anticipated to reach USD

537.45 billion by 2030. According to a study by Fatpos Global, the market is anticipated to portray a CAGR of 4.49 % between 2020 and 2030. According to the report, Liquid packaging is extensively used among various end-user industries owing to its properties such as tear scuff and heat resistance, loss of moisture, and cost-effectiveness. Moreover, technological advancements in packaging standards, escalating demand for packaged food and FMCG, increasing e-commerce activities, and high demand for sustainable and lightweight packaging stimulate the growth of the Global liquid packaging market.

"Consumers are seeking environment-friendly packaging options, which is expected to be a major factor to boost the demand for liquid packaging. Moreover, the recyclability of cardboard items lowers the cost of urban waste and long-term production. Aseptic cartons are primarily made of paperboard, with thin layers of plastic and aluminum. Such type of cartons is helpful in preserving the food for a long period of time even without adding any preservatives. In addition to this, in the beverage industry aseptic packaging is highly used since these cartons remove the need for preservatives and make sure that the food is preserved for a long period of time.", said a lead analyst at Fatpos Global.

Packaging is the safety technology to protect products for storage, distribution, sale, and use. Liquid packaging is a packaging technique which is done to protect the consumables like food, beverages, and liquids from damage during transportation and storage and from microbial contamination. For proper transportation and long-term storage selection of liquid packaging is vital. Liquid packaging includes rigid and flexible packaging formats. Rigid packaging consists bottles and containers and flexible packaging includes squeezable tubes, films, bag-on-box, cartons, and stand-up pouches. Liquid packaging helps to preserve the product's freshness and plays a crucial role in preserving the product from moisture. Liquid packaging provides improved shelf life, elevated recyclability, high eco-friendliness, and convenience for transport.
