A significant increase in defense spending for strengthening cross-border security and reducing terrorist attacks is currently driving the global warships and naval vessels market. Additionally, the growing prevalence of geopolitical conflicts and maritime tensions between several nations are also augmenting the product demand. Moreover, the allocation of a high defense budget, especially across the Middle East and the Asia Pacific countries, is further propelling the demand for warships and naval vessels. Moreover, several armed forces are focusing on the upgradation of their current fleet of naval ships with advanced variants. In the coming years, the rising utilization of naval vessels in humanitarian assistance and disaster relief operations is expected to further bolster the global market. Looking forward, IMARC Group expects the market to reach US$ 85.1 Billion by 2027, exhibiting at a CAGR of 5.96% during 2022-2027.
