As per The Business Research

Company's "Drone Servicing/Repair
Global Market Report 2022", the drone servicing/repair market size is expected to grow from $8.61 billion in 2021 to $13.08 billion in 2022 at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 51.9%. The growth in the market is mainly due to the companies resuming their operations and adapting to the new normal while recovering from the COVID-19 impact, which had earlier led to restrictive containment measures involving social distancing, remote working, and the closure of commercial activities that resulted in operational challenges. The drone servicing and repair market share is expected to reach $65.41 billion in 2026 at a CAGR of 49.5%. According to the drone servicing/repair market analysis, the growing adoption of precision agriculture practices is expected to drive the growth of the market in the coming years.

Key Trends In The Drone Servicing/Repair Market

The growing technological advancements are one of the emerging drone servicing/repair industry trends. Major companies operating in the drone servicing or repair sector are focused on developing technological solutions for drone services to strengthen their position. For instance, in October 2019, AAR, a US-based provider of aerospace products and services to commercial airlines declared the incorporation of Donecle drone technology into its maintenance, repair, and overhaul (MRO) operations. The AAR MRO facility in Miami is the first in the company's global network to deploy fully automated drone technology that improves operational and cost savings, with the pilot phase yielding improvements in speed and precision. The drone can securely undertake end-to-end visual inspections of B737 and A320 airplanes in about an hour using laser positioning.
