The 2023 - 2024 Mr. & Ms. Military Pageant will be judged by a live in-person audience and viewers watching online, who will determine the top male and female contestants who have experience in any branch of U.S. military service. Each contestant will be judged in part by how creative their strategy was with raising funds and awareness for a non-profit organization of their choice.

Contestants will be judged in five categories, including: creativity with fundraising and bringing awareness to their nonprofit, fitness using 60-second video submissions, military knowledge, an on-stage performance (singing, dancing, poetry, instruments, comedy, etc.), and formal

The pageant is open to veterans and active service members, and also considers submissions from non-profit organizations. The winning contestants are not couples or spouses, they represent the leading man and woman in each category.

The MMMO pageant was created in 2009 by the organization's founder Calvin Hill, a veteran with 20 years of experience who served on active duty at the Naval Amphibious Base in Coronado, California. Hill is also currently a Community Care Coordinator with the San Diego VA Healthcare System. Hill is a staunch advocate for veterans and has a deep appreciation for the U.S. armed services. He designed the pageant to give more visibility to the service men and women who deserve recognition for their efforts on and off base.

"Most times, our service members are honored and recognized on a military base outside of public view. I wanted to change that by giving veterans and active-duty service members the spotlight they deserve with an extraordinary platform worthy of our service men and women — an opportunity they can be proud of for years to come," said Hill.

"The Mr. & Ms. Military Pageant is not intended to be a traditional pageant; we are taking pageantry to the next level and invite veterans and active service members to help us make this possible by showcasing and celebrating their contributions," he added.
