Sometimes the perfect gift may be that little odd trinket that you find on a store shelf. And the Great Alaskan Bowl Company has plenty of little trinkets to choose from – many of which are locally produced by vendors operating in Fairbanks, Anchorage, and the surrounding areas.

Additionally, most of the products at the Great Alaskan Bowl Company offer authentic Alaskan craftsmanship – and are made using local Alaskan resources such as Fireweed, Spit Salt, and many others.

The Great Alaskan Bowl Company is located in Fairbanks, Alaska, and has served the local community and tourists for many years. If you're looking for authentic Alaskan products, their store is full of wonderful items – including their signature Alaskan birch bowls that can be customized in many ways. Their local products can be shipped nationwide and each month you can choose from new items that are being featured both in-store and online.
