Rising disposable income, geriatric and urban population, film industry influence, and technological advancements are expected to boost market demand.

HYDERABAD, TELANGANA, INDIA, January 30, 2023 /EINPresswire.com/ -- IndustryARC, in its latest report, predicts that The Cosmeceuticals Market size is estimated to reach $51.6 billion by 2027, growing at a CAGR of 8.6% during the forecast period 2022-2027. Cosmeceutical is a term coined by the cosmetic industry to demarcate products that are a blend of cosmetics and pharmaceuticals and are proficient in extending beauty and skincare benefits as they are laden with bioactive ingredients such as glycosaminoglycans. Cosmeceuticals have several applications such as protection against harmful UV-rays, reducing dark complexion, helping pigmentation hitches, anti-aging, and many more. They generally come in lotion and cream forms. Moreover, the heavy presence of antioxidants in these products makes them of utmost significance in foiling the oxidative mutilation perpetrated by the free radical attack. Cosmeceuticals help in treating impaired skin cells by promoting healthy cellular proliferation and extending synergistic effects. Hyaluronic acid is one of the most widely recognized anti-aging cosmeceuticals. In order to meet certain criteria or industry standards, quality control is practiced staggeringly during the production of cosmeceuticals. Furthermore, expanding pharmacology advancements, rising demand for antibacterial and anti-inflammatory products, enlarging consumer awareness, mounting body-shaming issues, escalating disposable income, and western influence in developing countries are factors set to drive the growth of the Cosmeceuticals Market for the period 2022-2027.
