OnlineCheckWriter.com, a leading B2B payment platform, offers the automated Positive Pay service to streamline cash management and boost fraud detection. This new feature enables businesses to inform their banks about issued checks, ensuring that only authorized payments are cleared.

"Our automated Positive Pay service empowers businesses to take control of their cash management and eliminate fraud effectively," said Sabeer Nelli, CEO and Founder of OnlineCheckWriter.com. "Our platform seamlessly transmits the list of issued checks to the bank through various convenient channels such as API, FTP, and Excel sheet uploads, ending the need for manual notifications."

When the check is presented for payment, the bank verifies its authenticity by matching the check number, account number, and dollar amount against the list of checks provided by the issuing company. Any checks that do not match the predefined criteria are promptly returned to the issuer and become "exception items." In certain cases, the bank may seek permission to clear a check if it is considered valid and is immediately communicated to the client via fax or check image. The issuing company can then review the presented check and instruct the bank to accept or deny it, effectively minimizing exposure to fraudulent transactions.

"The platform ensures real-time communication with the bank, enabling immediate check cancellations and voiding," he added. "By reporting issued checks in advance, companies can significantly reduce the risk of fraudulent activity."
