John Welch

With the release of Sync API version 8, ConnectVNA is taking its integration capabilities to the next level. This update introduces support for digital signings, empowering software suites to indicate where users should sign documents coming out of their systems. This feature streamlines the document signing process, enhancing efficiency and productivity for both businesses and their customers; vastly reducing the amount of time needed to complete common transactions.

In addition to digital signings, Sync API version 8 also includes support for Google and Microsoft account login. This integration enables users to seamlessly log in to ConnectVNA's O&G Platform using their existing Google or Microsoft accounts, eliminating the need for separate credentials, and simplifying the user experience.
