Koreleo, a trailblazer in high performance athletic wear

Tailored for gymnasts, dancers, runners and figure skaters our innovative solution combats inflammation, provides dynamic back support, shields the spine from impact, and expedites recovery.”

Faith Mason, President of Koreleo

Through the strategic integration of 20-30 mmHg medical-grade compression into the core of all Koreleo apparel, athletes, dancers, and fitness enthusiasts can now access quantifiable relief from lumbar inflammation and safeguard themselves against overuse and repetitive injuries. This proprietary compression technology is sourced from a reputable USA textile mill renowned for its expertise in medical applications. Rigorously tested, scientifically proven, and patented, Koreleo's cutting-edge collection transcends traditional sportswear, ushering in a transformative training and recovery experience with its hallmark features:

Functional Support that Stays in Place: Koreleo's seamless technology is engineered with precision to provide functional support that stays securely in place. Whether during intense workouts or high-performance activities, athletes can rely on Koreleo's garments for stability, impact absorption, and remarkable comfort.

Faster Recovery and Injury Prevention: Used for decades by the medical community, compression therapy enhances blood circulation, speeds tissue repair, helps flush lactic acid away, and controls inflammation. Athletes experience reduced fatigue and impact on the anatomy ensuring they can bounce back quickly and maintain peak performance during their training sessions and avoid over-use injuries.

Enhanced Comfort and Performance Optimization: Koreleo's active recovery wear places a paramount emphasis on health and injury prevention. The soft yet robust fabrics deliver unparalleled comfort, enabling athletes to enjoy dynamic support without compromising their mobility. By providing enhanced stability and support, Koreleo empowers athletes to concentrate wholeheartedly on their performance, elevating their overall body awareness.

"In today's world, young athletes commence their journeys at ever-earlier ages, often pushing their bodies to the limit. The countless hours of repetitive training take a toll on developing physiques. Koreleo's answer is the integration of medical-grade compression into the core of our apparel," says President Faith Mason who founded Koreleo driven by the profound inspiration of her daughter, who endured a back injury while pursuing her dreams as an elite gymnast. "Tailored for gymnasts, dancers, runners, figure skaters, and anyone who dons a bodysuit, our innovative solution combats inflammation, provides dynamic back support, shields the spine from impact, and expedites recovery. At Koreleo, we're safeguarding the future of athletes, one compression at a time."
