generation AI platforms for rental housing investors and lenders, today announced the addition of industry veteran Patrick Flint to its stellar team of industry veterans in rental housing.

Prior to joining Beekin, Flint was most recently Vice President of Problem Management at RealPage. In this role, he was responsible for enterprise problem management, process, and governance for all RealPage products across five business units. Prior to RealPage, he spent a decade as Vice President of Operations at Rainmaker Group, helping scale the LRO revenue management product prior to the company's acquisition by RealPage. Pat holds an MBA in Decision Sciences from Georgia State University and obtained his bachelor's degree in Economics from University of North Texas.

"I am excited to work with a group of technologists and operators who are applying cutting edge AI to solve some of the biggest problems facing the rental housing industry," says Flint. "I have always enjoyed working with growth companies that are pioneers. Beekin is definitely a disruptor in space at a time when change and efficiency is needed the most."

Vidur Gupta, Founder and CEO of Beekin said, "Pat is an industry veteran with a reputation and charisma par none. Through his background in both scaling early-stage companies to market leadership as well as building processes and systems at large multi-billion-dollar companies, Pat has done it all. We are looking forward to building the next generation of AI tools with Pat's insights."
