/EINPresswire.com/ -- James E. Copple, author and former professor, announces the release of his latest book, "Meditations and Radiation." This deeply personal work chronicles Copple's journey through prostate cancer treatment, offering readers 27 profound meditations inspired by his experiences in the face of adversity.

In "Meditations and Radiation," Copple invites readers into his intimate reflections as he underwent radiation treatment for prostate cancer. Each meditation corresponds to a word carefully chosen to provide solace, encouragement, and inspiration amidst the challenges of illness and life's hardships. From themes of justice to grace and hope, Copple's words resonate with readers navigating their own difficult circumstances.

As a cancer survivor, Copple's primary motivation for writing this book was to offer hope and perspective to those facing similar challenges. "Seeking purpose in the face of a cancer diagnosis, I wanted to affirm that there was more than the diagnosis," Copple explains. "I wanted others to have an
