MDR Webinar

A Manifestation Determination Review (MDR) is a critical process that occurs when a child with a disability faces suspension from school for ten days or more, either consecutively or cumulatively. During an MDR, two key questions are addressed:

Manifestation Determination Review: What Parents Need to Know”
Ashley Bennett

1. Was the behavior that led to the disciplinary action directly related to the child’s disability?
2. Was the disciplinary action resulting from the

Individualized Education Plan (IEP) not being implemented?

If the answer to either question is yes, the behavior is determined to be a manifestation of the disability. If both answers are no, the behavior is not considered a manifestation of the disability.

The outcomes and subsequent steps after the MDR depend on the team's determination. This webinar will guide parents through this complex process, ensuring they understand their children's rights and the protections provided by IDEA.

Join us for this vital session, during which our Special Education Advocacy Division will discuss the MDR process and offer a Q&A segment to address individual questions from the audience.
