Growth driver of the cannabis capsule market

The increasing number of neurological disorders is expected to propel the growth of the cannabis capsule market going forward. Neurological disorder refers to a medical condition affecting the central and peripheral nervous systems. It affects not just the spinal cord's and body's nerves but also the brain. Compounds found in cannabis capsules, such as cannabidiol (CBD), have potential beneficial effects for neurological disorders, as they are used to prevent the development of social recognition memory deficits in conditions such as Alzheimer's disease.
