

Puptown Houston Provides Safe Haven for Over 50 Pets During Hurricane Beryl Power Outage

HOUSTON , TEXAS, UNITED STATES, July 13, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- In the wake of the recent power outages caused by Hurricane Beryl, Puptown Houston has stepped up to provide a safe and welcoming environment for over 50 pets affected by the crisis. Known for its exceptional dog training, boarding, and daycare services, Puptown Houston opened its doors to offer refuge and care to pets in need, ensuring their safety and comfort during this challenging time.

Hurricane Beryl has left many Houstonians struggling with power outages, making it difficult for pet owners to ensure the well-being of their furry friends. Recognizing the urgent need, Puptown Houston swiftly expanded its capacity and resources to accommodate the influx of pets, providing them with a secure, climate-controlled environment, nutritious meals, and continuous care.

"We are committed to supporting our community, especially in times of crisis," said Timothy Wood, owner of Puptown Houston. "Our priority is to ensure that pets are safe, happy, and well-cared for so their owners can focus on managing the challenges brought by the hurricane."

In addition to offering boarding and daycare services, Puptown Houston's skilled trainers have been providing enrichment activities to keep the pets engaged and stress-free. The dedicated staff has been working around the clock to maintain the highest standards of care, ensuring each pet receives individual attention and comfort.

Puptown Houston's response to the power outage crisis underscores its role as a trusted and reliable partner for pet owners in the Houston area. The facility's commitment to excellence in pet care, coupled with its willingness to go above and beyond during emergencies, has reinforced its reputation as a premier destination for dog training, boarding, and daycare.
