Lindsey Horvath Speaking at the Inaugural Small Business Recognition Breakfast

Glass Arts Collective was one of many outstanding small businesses to have been recognized by its local chamber in association with Los Angeles County Supervisor Lindsey Horvath, Third District, at the first Small Business Recognition Breakfast.

Founded with a passion for the transformative power of glass art, Glass Arts Collective has become a cornerstone of the local art scene. By offering workshops, classes, and gallery exhibitions, the Collective has created a dynamic space where creativity flourishes and community connections are forged.

Small businesses like Glass Arts Collective are the heartbeat of every community. They provide unique services, personalized experiences, and a sense of identity that larger corporations often cannot. The Collective's success is a testament to the profound impact that small businesses have on local economies, culture, and social cohesion.

"We would like to extend our heartfelt gratitude to Los Angeles County Supervisor Lindsey Horvath, Third District, her dedicated staff, and the Greater Conejo Valley Chamber of Commerce" states Marks. "As a small niche business, we understand how easily one can fall through the cracks in such a vast geographic area. The Chamber's recognition and unwavering support have made us feel truly seen and valued. This acknowledgment not only honors our work but also fuels our passion to continue contributing to the vibrant community we are proud to be a part of. Thank you for shining a light on our small business and the impact we strive to make."
