LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, July 26, 2024

/EINPresswire.com/ -- To kick off a new primetime season and celebrate its 25th anniversary, "Who Wants To Be A Millionaire" is pairing celebrity contestants to compete on behalf of the charity of their choice.

In last week's season premiere, National College Resources Foundation's (NCRF) very own Celebrity Ambassador, actor, and comedian, Kel Mitchell, played to raise money for NCRF and continue in his strong support of its mission to change lives. Kel teamed up with his Nickelodeon best friend, actor Kenan Thompson, who was playing for the Cristian Rivera Foundation.

“

Every dollar counts and having Kel do this for NCRF is life-changing for us. It helps us assist so many low resource students with their dreams of going to college and help break poverty cycles.”

Dr. Theresa Price, Founder and CEO of NCRF

With their humor, they fell right back into their “Kenan & Kel” duo to work through a few rounds. Both walked away with $32,000 for their designated charities.

“Every dollar counts, and having Kel do this for NCRF is life-changing for us. It helps us assist so many low-resource students with their dreams of going to college and help break poverty cycles,” says Founder Dr. Theresa Price.
