Growth Driver Of The Concierge Medicine Market

The increasing healthcare expenditure is expected to propel the growth of the concierge medicine market going forward. Healthcare expenditure refers to the total amount of resources spent on healthcare services and products within a given period, including costs for hospital care, physician services, medications, and other health-related services. Healthcare expenditure is rising due to advancements in medical technology and the increasing prevalence of chronic diseases. Concierge medicine utilizes healthcare expenditures for personalized, premium medical services, offering patients enhanced access and tailored care.
