“Our focus now is to build on her existing momentum and introduce her to new markets, starting with her upcoming performance opening for CeeLo Green,” says Hoyes. This performance, scheduled for September 14th at Ember in Orlando, marks a pivotal moment in her journey, offering her a platform to showcase her artistry to a broader audience.

High Rise Hooligan: Known offstage as Jesse Barnes, High Rise Hooligan is a driving force in the Indianapolis EDM scene, blending intricate electronic compositions with raw, infectious energy. His weekly performances at “The Hangout” at The Patron Saint have become a staple of the city’s nightlife, drawing in crowds with a unique mix of high-octane beats and immersive experiences. Barnes’s commitment to his community, including his work with the Keep Indy Beautiful organization, reflects a dedication to his roots that complements his musical pursuits.

Managed by Eric Weinstein, a US Army veteran with a sharp eye for talent and strategy, Barnes is ready to extend his reach beyond Indianapolis. “I’ve worked with many talented musicians, but High Rise Hooligan brings something truly special to the table—a combination of authenticity and innovation that’s rare in the industry today,” says Weinstein. With WOFÉ’s support, Barnes is positioned to transform his local success into a national presence.
