What sets Pride Detox apart from other treatment centers is its commitment to offering more than just standard care; the focus is the safe and affirming space where LGBTQIA+ individuals, especially those in the transgender & nonbinary community, can feel truly seen and understood. "An authentic treatment experience is what makes recovery possible," says Founder & CEO, Donna Weinberger. Nestled in Long Beach, Pride Detox is surrounded by an environment surrounded by LGBTQ+ peers in recovery. In fact, the clean and sober queer folks from the local Queer 12 Step clubhouse bring in weekly meetings to give hope that recovery is possible and actually fun. Seeing queer sober visibility brings hope to the clients at Pride Detox that recovery is reachable.

"At Pride Detox, our mission is simple: to provide a safe and supportive environment for LGBTQIA+ individuals facing addiction, empowering them to achieve recovery," says Donna Weinberger, founder of Pride Detox. "There are many factors that play into a successful recovery from addiction. Being LGBTQIA+ adds more to that plate, and we have closed the gap that has made it more difficult for the LGBTQIA+ community to find effective addiction treatment. Hope is real. Help is here."

Donna Weinberger, a leading voice in LGBTQIA+ addiction recovery with decades of experience, has made it their life's work to create affirming environments for queer and transgender individuals seeking recovery. After opening Inspire Recovery in West Palm Beach, FL, in 2015 & Q Space Detox in Miami-Dade, FL Donna has continued their mission by bringing the "Inspire Recovery" LGBTQ+ affirming and trauma-informed philosophy to Pride Detox.

As a member of the LGBTQIA+ community, Donna's dedication to providing life-saving interventions for their peers continues to inspire every aspect of Pride Detox.
