TimberTech offers high-performance, eco-friendly decking that mimics the aesthetic of natural wood while offering long-lasting durability and sustainability. The partnership with TimberTech allows S&E Remodeling to provide their customers with premium decking materials that require minimal maintenance and are built to withstand the toughest elements.

“We're looking forward to participating in the Washington Home Show and sharing our new partnership with TimberTech,” said Yaniv Livnat, owner of S&E Remodeling

Inc. “TimberTech products align with our goal of offering durable, low-maintenance outdoor solutions, and we believe this collaboration will benefit homeowners seeking long-lasting, high-quality decking options.”

Visitors to the Washington Home Show can stop by Booth 431 to explore a variety of decking design options, speak with the S&E Remodeling team about potential projects, and learn more about TimberTech's composite decking materials. The booth will feature information on the latest trends in deck construction and home remodeling, with representatives available to answer questions and discuss project ideas.

In addition to their deck-building services, S&E Remodeling Inc. offers a wide range of home renovation and remodeling services, including:
