Global industry collaboration is critical to this mission. The Council's Participating Organizations program brings together industry leaders to strategize about how to protect payment data from the latest threats and to anticipate the needs of an ever-changing payment ecosystem.

As an Associate Participating Organization, INQTEL adds its voice to the standards development process and will collaborate with a growing community to improve payment security worldwide. INQTEL will also have the opportunity to recommend new initiatives for consideration to the PCI Security Standards Council and share cross-sector experiences and best practices at the annual PCI Community Meetings.

"In an era of increasingly sophisticated attacks on systems, PCI Security Standards and resources help organizations secure payment data and prevent, detect and mitigate attacks that can lead to costly data breaches," said Gina Gobeyn, Executive Director of the PCI Security Standards Council. "By joining as an Associate Participating Organization, INQTEL has the opportunity to play an active part in improving payment security globally by helping drive awareness and adoption of PCI Security Standards."
