Suhas Gopinath, CEO of Globals, shared his thoughts on this milestone: “The Hague, known as the city of peace and justice, provides a highly conducive ecosystem for startups and companies in cybersecurity. This makes it the perfect location for us to establish our base in the Netherlands. From here, we can enhance our offerings and cater more effectively to our clients, while benefiting from the collaborative and innovation driven environment.” Globals is a market leader in providing cyber defense systems, cyber resilience solutions, and turnkey Security Operations Center (SOC) solutions. The company offers SOC as a Service, IT/OT security solutions, and specializes in ensuring resilience for critical infrastructure. The decision to expand into the Netherlands was spurred by Globals' selection as one of the 10 Indian cybersecurity companies for the prestigious Digital Soft Landing program, organized by The Hague & Partners and NFIA. This program introduced Globals to the thriving cybersecurity ecosystem in The Hague, making it an ideal location for further growth and collaboration. Suhas Gopinath also played a prominent role as a keynote speaker at the ONE Conference 2024, held on October 1, 2024, at the World Forum in The Hague. His speech on "Cyberwarfare in the Age of Digital & New Space Economy" showcased Globals' expertise in addressing the evolving cybersecurity challenges. His participation at the event helped forge new partnerships and reinforced Globals' presence in the region. With existing customers and operations in France, Germany, and the UK, this new office in The Hague will allow Globals to increase its focus and service capabilities for the Dutch and European markets. The company also plans to establish a Cybersecurity R&D center in The Hague in the near future, further enhancing its ability to innovate and provide state-of-the-art security solutions.
