

Femme Cheval Launches Industry-First Equestrian Social Platform

LOS ANGELES, CA, UNITED STATES, December 2, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Femme Cheval, a cutting-edge equestrian social club, officially launched its digital platform with the help of VisionTroy, a web development and artificial intelligence \(AI\) consultancy firm.

The Femme Cheval social networking platform is a modern, high-tech application with dedicated community resources and social functionality. The Femme Cheval team partnered with VisionTroy to revolutionize the equestrian community by introducing the first dedicated social platform for riders, professionals, and enthusiasts. The network serves as a comprehensive resource for finding stables, trainers, and fellow riders to bring the entire equestrian community together in one seamless, user-friendly experience.

Femme Cheval Equestrian Network

"Members of Femme Cheval are already benefiting immensely from the intuitive design and user experience of our new social platform. It is something our community has needed for a long time," said Brittany Besier, Founder of Femme Cheval.

"We had a great experience building a social network from the ground up, and are very proud of the work completed to bring this dream to life," said Dev Soor, founder of VisionTroy. "Our team's expertise has the flexibility to build these platforms, integrate AI solutions, build software products, and more."

About Femme Cheval

Femme Cheval is the first dedicated social platform for riders, professionals, and enthusiasts in the equestrian community. This innovative network allows users to effortlessly search for and connect with local equestrians, creating a supportive environment for all things equine. By offering a centralized directory and database, the platform serves as a comprehensive resource for finding stables, trainers, and fellow riders.

About VisionTroy

VisionTroy understands that transforming a vision into a successful web or mobile application requires more than just coding skills. It demands a clear strategy, meticulous planning, and seamless execution. The journey from concept to launch can be complex, often overwhelming even the most seasoned entrepreneurs. Navigating the technical landscape, assembling the right team, and securing your first customer can feel like navigating uncharted territory. VisionTroy acts as your trusted guide and partner throughout this journey, providing technical expertise, strategic guidance, and essential resources to streamline the development process and bring your vision to life. Our comprehensive approach ensures you're not just launching a product, but building a foundation for sustainable success.

Members of Femme Cheval are benefiting immensely from the intuitive design and user experience of our new networking platform. It is something our community has needed for a long time."
