Sinai Residences earned its U.S. News Best Nursing Home status by achieving a rating of "High Performing," the highest possible rating, for both Short-Term Rehabilitation and Long-Term Care. U.S. News gives the designation of Best Nursing Home only to those that satisfy U.S. News' proprietary assessment of consistent performance in quality measures.

"We are honored to have Sinai Residence's Health Center recognized nationally in the top 5% of 2025 Best Nursing Homes by U.S. News & World Report," said Cameron Gordon-Forbes, Executive Director of the Health Center at Sinai Residences. "Our 'High Performing' rating is truly a testament to the entire Health Center at Sinai Residences team and our commitment to quality care and well-being of our residents every single day."

For the 2025 edition, U.S. News evaluated nearly 15,000 nursing homes on patient and resident outcomes, such as infection rates, staffing levels, potentially inappropriate reliance on antipsychotic drugs, health inspection results, and other indicators of quality.

“U.S. News' Best Nursing Homes ratings put patient well-being at the forefront and provide families with the objective information they need to make confident decisions about their loved ones' care,” said Ben Harder, chief of health analysis and managing editor at U.S. News. “These annual ratings recognize U.S. nursing homes that deliver high-quality care, earning consistent positive outcomes, and support American families in finding local nursing homes that prioritize safety and well-being.”

Since 2009, U.S. News’ annual Best Nursing Homes ratings have assisted American families in need of either short-term rehabilitation or long-term care for themselves or a loved one. To calculate the Best Nursing Homes ratings, U.S. News evaluated each nursing home’s performance using a variety of quality measures obtained from the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS). The U.S. News methodology factors data such as resident care, safety and outcomes. Both short- and long-term ratings include data on nurse staffing, use of antipsychotic drugs and success in preventing ER and hospital visits. The long-term care rating also includes measures of whether a home changed ownership and how well it was staffed on weekends.

The Health Center at Sinai Residences was recently recognized by Newsweek as one of America’s Best Nursing Homes in 2025. In 2024 Sinai Residences was named to Newsweek’s list of “America’s Best Continuing Care Retirement Communities” and ranked number one in America on Fortune’s “Best Workplaces in Senior Living.” The Health Center was also recognized in 2023 as one of 50 Florida nursing homes to receive a 5-Star Rating from U.S. News and World Report’s annual rating report.
