Research Society (WCRS) has released two informative videos featuring lawyer, Justin A. Villeneuve, with WGB Law Group, speaking on whistleblower rights. These resources break down the legal options available in Ontario and offer practical guidance to those considering whistleblowing.

Public Sector Rights: This video explains the legal choices in Ontario’s public sector, helping individuals understand their rights and the processes for reporting misconduct.

Private Sector Rights: This video highlights protections and options for whistleblowers in the private sector, offering practical steps to navigate challenges and minimize risks.

“Making the decision to blow the whistle takes courage, and it’s critical that individuals understand their rights and the protections available to them,” said Pamela Forward, President of Whistleblowing Canada Research Society. “These videos provide essential guidance for those navigating the complexities of whistleblowing in Ontario, equipping them with the knowledge to act responsibly and safeguard their well-being.”

Both videos are now available on the Whistleblowing Canada website and YouTube.
