"It was an honor to discuss investment opportunities in solid companies that can survive and thrive in uncertain times to a sophisticated audience of investors at the Family Office Super Summit here in South Florida," commented Edmund L. Luzine, Jr., the Founder and CEO of Wytrwal Industries, a former emerging markets investment banker, Army officer, and professor.

"As investors re-balance their portfolios before the end of a great year in most markets, they are seeking aggressive value investments in order to capitalize on global events, and many of those opportunities exist in the global emerging markets, energy and mining sectors, and in aerospace and defense", he added.
