COVID-19 analysis:

Building & construction activities across the globe were on hold during the pandemic period owing to strict measures of social distancing, lack of labor, and raw material supply disruptions. This further declined the growth of the market in 2020. Moreover, temporary shutdown of factories, manufacturing bases, and other processing industries hampered the growth of the gas water heater market. Thus, all these factors collectively led to decreased the global gas water heater market growth in 2020.
