

Drywood Termites Discovered in Virginia Beach, Virginia.

Subterranean termites are not alone in Virginia Beach. The drywood termite has been discovered in Virginia Beach, Virginia.

VIRGINIA BEACH, VA, UNITED STATES, February 10, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Universal Pest & Termite, a leading pest control company in Virginia Beach, is celebrating their 25th year anniversary with a shocking discovery. The company has found evidence of drywood termites in the area, a species that is not native to Virginia Beach.

Drywood termites are a type of termite that typically infest dry wood, unlike the native subterranean termite which prefers damp and moist environments. This discovery has raised concerns among homeowners and businesses in the area, as drywood termites can cause significant damage to wooden structures.

According to Universal Pest & Termite, the discovery of drywood termites in Virginia Beach is a rare occurrence. The company has been providing pest control services in the area for 25 years and has never encountered this species before. This finding highlights the importance of regular termite inspections and treatments to prevent infestations and protect properties from costly damage.
