Bevo Pay is not only convenient for students, but it also offers added security. The system is linked to the student's account, ensuring that only authorized individuals can make purchases. In addition, students can track their spending and manage their accounts online, providing them with a better understanding of their dining expenses.

Roppolos is proud to be one of the many merchants that offer Bevo Pay, on and off campus. They hope to see more Austin businesses adopt this payment option in the future. With Bevo Pay, students can now enjoy their meals without the hassle of carrying cash or credit cards.

Did you know? After becoming a regular at a local New York pizzeria, Marc Roppolo was shocked to one day find the place closed at his usual lunch time. He walked to the corner of the Citibank, took out $500, and told the cook of the pizzeria, "You will make the pizza and I will sell the pizza." And so they did. This went on for about three days when the owner, Armando returned to find the register full and patrons standing in line. He asked what Marc was doing which he returned with a smile saying, "Hey, someone had to open the store." The rest is history.
