“The RelaxGrip 2.0 DX golf glove is the latest in our line of gloves that adds the Dual Expansion Zone to the thumb,” said Bionic Gloves’ Director, Stephen Benoit. “Customers have loved this innovative addition to other gloves in our golf line, so it was important for us to not leave the RelaxGrip 2.0 out of the party. We are extremely excited to release the latest version of this glove and to hear our customers feedback from the green.”

The Dual Expansion Zone Thumb, a one-of-a-kind feature that has never been offered in the golf world before Bionic Gloves developed and added it to their golf line, is patented and adjusts to any size thumb’s length and width, delivering a first in class fit, feel and performance. Bionic has also brought back the customer favorite patented relief padding system on the fingers and palm to help even out the contour of the hands, providing a better grip through all conditions. RelaxGrip 2.0 DX gloves feature a patented pre-rotated finger design that follows the natural closure of the hand allowing for ease of movement and reduced hand fatigue as well as terrycloth micro-pads inside to wick away moisture and keep hands drier. The Japanese synthetic honeycomb material adds dimension to the finish, giving your fashion game a subtle edge. Lycra web and motion zones enhance breathability, dexterity, and flexibility.

RelaxGrip 2.0 DX golf gloves are available in men's sizes LH S-3XL, LH Cadet S-XL and RH S-3XL and in women's sizes LH and RH S-XL. The RelaxGrip 2.0 DX Golf Glove has an MSRP of $19.99.
