

Mazor Collective CEO Supporting Women Through Philanthropic Work

PHOENIX, AZ, UNITED STATES, March 5, 2025

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Lilach Mazor Power, CEO of Mazor Collective and Giving Tree Dispensary, has actively supported the Arizona community for over a decade, donating more than $90,000 to nonprofit organizations, with a focus on organizations serving women.

“Businesses have a responsibility to give back. At Giving Tree, we want to inspire everyone to be an active member of their community and uplift those who need help,” said Power.

Power is an active supporter of causes such as StreetLightUSA, a Christ-centered nonprofit providing healing and recovery services to young girls who have experienced human trafficking, and Pat's Run, which benefits the Pat Tillman Foundation's Tillman Scholars program for military service members, veterans and their spouses.

For the past eleven years, Power and her team have been passionately fundraising and volunteering to Chrysalis, an Arizona-based nonprofit committed to supporting survivors of domestic abuse. This past December, their efforts reached new heights, with their latest fundraiser smashing records at Giving Tree for the most money raised to date in one fundraiser.

Power and her team worked together with guests at Giving Tree to raise $3,587 in donations. Dedicated to her commitment to giving back to the community, Power matched the funds raised, doubling the impact and bringing the total contribution to $7,174.

Mazor Collective is a female-owned and operated vertically integrated cannabis company led by founder and CEO Lilach Mazor Power.

“We are grateful for the generosity of our customers, employees and community,” said Power. “I’ve been a Chrysalis volunteer since 2006 and began fundraising for them in 2014. Chrysalis strengthens our community with every survivor they support.”
