Understanding Curricular Practical Training (CPT) and Its Impact

What is CPT?

Curricular Practical Training (CPT) is a U.S. work authorization program for F-1 international students, allowing them to participate in paid internships or employment directly related to their studies. CPT provides valuable hands-on experience, strengthening students' academic and professional development.

What is Integral CPT?

Integral CPT programs are structured to integrate work experience with academic learning from the start of a student's program. These programs are particularly attractive to international students seeking to build their careers while completing their education.

Rising Demand for Integral CPT Programs

In an increasingly competitive job market, employers value graduates who possess both theoretical knowledge and real-world skills. HMS's partner universities recognize this need and are pioneering integral CPT programs that provide students with:

- Practical skills that complement academic learning.
- Professional experience to enhance employability.
- Networking opportunities with industry professionals.

Benefits of Integral CPT Programs

- Immediate Career Experience – Students gain hands-on industry experience from day one.
- Enhanced Employability – Combining work and study gives students a competitive edge.
- Financial Flexibility – Paid work opportunities help offset educational expenses.
- Stronger Job Prospects – Graduates enter the workforce with proven experience and industry connections.
- Professional Networking – Students build relationships with future employers.

Exclusive HMS University Partnerships

HMS partners with prestigious universities committed to providing international students with experiential learning opportunities with CPT from day 1. Current partner institutions include:

- Texas Wesleyan University
- National Louis University
- Ottawa University
- Humphreys University
- Harrisburg University

These institutions are recognized for their academic excellence and commitment to integrating practical training opportunities into their curriculum.
