

Marc Feldman, Co-Author of Space Piracy Book, to Present on Panel at Space Beach Law Lab

Feldman will participate in "Hacked from Orbit: The New Frontier of Space Cybersecurity" on March 27 in Long Beach, California

LOS ANGELES, CA, UNITED STATES, March 20, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Marc Feldman, co-author of the new book Space Piracy: Preparing for a Criminal Crisis in Orbit (Wiley), will participate in a panel discussion on space cybersecurity at the upcoming Space Law Lab in Long Beach, California. The panel, "Hacked from Orbit: The New Frontier of Space Cybersecurity," takes place on Thursday, March 27 on the Queen Mary. Other participants in the panel discussion include Zohar Tejani, a Partner at Fenwick, Carrie Marshall, the CEO of Rebel Space, and Randy Segal, a Partner at Hogan Lowells.

"It's an honor to be included in such esteemed company," explained Feldman. "Yet, this is exactly the idea we espouse in the book. The potential for crime and piracy and space compels stakeholders from different backgrounds to come together and discuss what can be done to mitigate this looming threat." Feldman is the Executive Director of the Center for the Study of Space Crime, Piracy, and Governance. He also serves as a Managing Partner at Eonia Capital, a venture capital fund focused on intelligence surveillance and reconnaissance (ISR) technologies.

Space Piracy: Preparing for a Criminal Crisis in Orbit, which Feldman authored with Hugh Taylor, debuted last month as the #1 bestselling title in the Aeronautical Engineering category on Amazon.com. It examines the potential for piracy and crime in space, which is likely to be a major issue in the space sector in the coming years. Thought leaders from the military, space industry, insurance, and legal fields are reacting positively to the book's message, which is that now is the time to prepare for the space piracy threat.
